The model relates MSRP to vehicle features (engine type, drive train, electronic stability control, anti-lock brakes, number of airbags, transmission, body additions, curb weight, horsepower to curb weight, height and vehicle class), fuel economy, insurance cost, additional warranty cost, depreciation, popularity, special USAA member discounts provided by dealers or manufacturers and IIHS top safety pick to determine the value. USAA Preferred vehicles are those vehicles ranked in the top 40 percent for each vehicle class AND obtain "Good/Acceptable" crash test ratings from IIHS.
